DETAILED ACTION

1. In view of the Response to Notice of Non-Compliant Appeal Brief filed on 12/6/04, PROSECUTION IS HEREBY REOPENED. Rejections follow.

To avoid abandonment of the application, appellant must exercise one of the following two options:

- (1) file a reply under 37 CFR 1.111 (if this Office action is non-final) or a reply under 37 CFR 1.113 (if this Office action is final); or,
 - (2) request reinstatement of the appeal.

If reinstatement of the appeal is requested, such request must be accompanied by a supplemental appeal brief, but no new amendments, affidavits (37 CFR 1.130, 1.131 or 1.132) or other evidence are permitted. See 37 CFR 1.193(b)(2).

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:
 The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 14-16 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 14 is unclear because the first line in the body states "... said sensor module including:", after which an accelerometer, an acoustic sensor, a protection device, and controller, are recited. This language is inconsistent with the preceding claims (and the Spec) because only the crash sensors/accelerometers and the acoustic sensor were "included in the sensor module".

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 2, 4-6, 14, 17, 20 and 22 (14 as best understood) are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hermann 6595544.

Hermann discloses a system for protecting a vehicle occupant comprising

Omni-directional, ultrasonic acoustic safing sensor 3 (c1, ln 65-end, c3, ln 25-37, and c5, ln 42-44), and may be placed "centrally in the vehicle in the tunnel/rigid body component"; c2, ln 5-7, and ln 17-21),

Crash sensor/accelerometer 4, placed remote from the acoustic sensor, in a forward part of the vehicle (c4, ln 26-28),

Occupant protection device (unidentified; c4, In 19-21), and,

Controller 5 controlling actuation of the device in response to separate signals from the sensors (c4, In 28-29).

The reference also discloses a method for controlling actuation of an occupant protection device, the steps derived from the structure/means provided above.

- 4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

A. Claims 3, 8-13, 15, 18 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hermann in view of Foo et al 5746444.

Re Claim 3, Hermann discloses all elements as provided above, but does not disclose a sensor module* including the two types of sensors, while Foo shows module 38 including a plurality of accelerometers 40,42,44 (c4, ln 29-32), the module centrally located in the vehicle – fig 2. It would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include other types of sensors, such as acoustic, etc., to increase ease of assembly and access to the sensors, simultaneously placing them in a location which would maximize detection of anticipated types of crash events.

* "Module" is given its broadest reasonable interpretation – in this case, an assembly of electronic components.

Re Claims 8, 10, 11, 15, 18 and 19, Hermann discloses all elements as provided above, but does not disclose a plurality of accelerometers, while Foo shows this arrangement with sensors 40,42,44. It would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include this configuration, as shown in Foo, to provide increased collision detection in more than one direction, thus increased accuracy and performance of the protection system. This objection is extremely well-known.

Re Claims 9, 12 and 13, Hermann discloses all elements as provided above, but does not disclose a sensor module* including an acoustic sensor, and at least one accelerometer, while Foo shows module 38 with at least one accelerometer. It would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include a plurality of sensors, as shown in Foo, to decrease assembly costs, and increase ease of access to the sensors. It is clear that the module may also include different types of sensors for this objective.

* "Module" is given its broadest reasonable interpretation – in this case, an assembly of electronic components.

B. Claims 7, 16 and 21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hermann in view of Gray et al 5620202.

Hermann discloses all elements as provided above, but does not disclose a side crush zone sensor/accelerometer, while Gray shows this sensor 18. It would have been obvious to one with ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to include this sensor, as shown in Gray, to provide increased collision detection in more than one direction, thus increased accuracy and performance of the protection system. This objection is extremely well-known.

5. The prior art made of record, and not relied upon, is considered pertinent to the disclosure: Cavallaro 5574427.

6. RESPONSE TO REMARKS

As explained above, upon reconsideration, Examiner has provided new rejections. She sincerely apologizes for the inconvenience.
